Messrs. J. F. CURTIS & J. BONSALL,

PRINCIPALS AND PROPRIETORS.

THIS Institution has at the present time better facilities than ever before for imparting to the Young Men of the West

A Practical Business Training,

Preparing them for the active duties of life.

Life Scholarship,

Good in forty-six First-Class Colleges.....$50 00

No other investment of an equal amount can be made a source of as much profit during life. Thousands of Dollars are lost every year by men who have little knowledge of business form and records, or the customs and laws of trade.

The Commercial Course

Embraces Double and Single Entry

BOOK KEEPING,

Commercial Arithmetic, Commercial Law, Business Correspondence, Business Penmanship, Lectures upon Business Forms, Customs, Laws and Regulations of Trade.

THE SPENCERIAN PENMANSHIP,

The Standard throughout this country, is thoroughly taught.

Preparatory Education.

An ordinary knowledge of the common English branches is all that is required.

Time of Commencing.

There being no Vacations, Students are admitted at any time and receive individual instruction.

TELEGRAPHING.

We have secured the services of a Practical Operator on account of which we can offer superior facilities in this Department.

SURVEYING.

Practical Surveying, for which there is an increasing demand throughout the West, will be taught by an experienced surveyor.

Read what others Say of us.

Messrs. Curtis & Bonsall are men of culture and experience in this department of education. They come among us for the purpose of establishing an institution in which the citizens of Burlington and the State at large have a deep interest, its special aim being to furnish the young men of our new and rapidly developing state with facilities for obtaining a thorough and systematic Business Education, which, to-day more than ever before, is essential to a successful business career.—Burlington Argus.

BURLINGTON BUSINESS COLLEGE.—This Institution is one of the National Chain, now numbering forty-six separate colleges, managed by the best educational business talent in the country.

These splendid specimens of Spencerian ornamental and business penmanship, which bore of the red ribbons, were among the chief attractions of our fair. The Spencerian penmanship has been growing in popularity during the last ten years, and is now recognized as superior to all other systems, and practiced by nine-tenths of the best writers and accountants throughout the country.

The facilities afforded by the International Chain of Business Colleges are not to be compared with those offered by local schools claiming similar advantages. The thousands of young men now filling their halls all through the country, but too plainly indicate that they are supplying a great public want, and these young men now acquiring this business training are destined in the future to fill the positions of honor, trust and profit which cannot be occupied by those who neglect to obtain these valuable advantages.—Wapello Republican.

Bryant & Stratton's Business College.—The chief aim all institutions of learning should be to impart a thorough practical knowledge, such as would be of the greatest value to the student in after life.—This is a leading feature of the above college. There the student is made not only familiar with Book-keeping, but also with the details of business. Regular books are opened, and the student is familiarized with the manner of transacting business by Jobbers, wholesale merchants and retail dealers. A thorough knowledge of Banking is also imparted. The managers of the Burlington Branch, Messrs. Curtis and Bonsall, are practical business men, and are determined to make the institution an honor to West and a lasting benefit to its patrons.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.
